Research Projects

Willingness-to-Accept Economic Incentives for Sustainable Groundwater Management: Co-designed and co-implemented a discrete choice experiment to elicit farmers' WTA cash incentives and participate in voluntary groundwater conservation programs under varying climatic and water availability conditions and incentive payment arrangements in Punjab, India.

Contract Design in Water Conservation Payments for Ecosystem Services Programs: Co-designed and co-implemented a stated preference study to elicit farmers' preferences for water buyback PES contracts to conserve water for endangered species during uncertain droughts in southwest Georgia, USA using a stochastic payment card approach.

Valuation of Levee Setbacks as a Nature-based Solution: Contributed to re-designing a traditional benefit-cost analysis framework to include ecosystem benefits by developing a case study of a setback project in Missouri river, in Atchison County, Missouri, USA.

Grants

2025	CAES Graduate International Travel Award, University of Georgia	$2,000
